      ii. Alumni list
         The alumni list has approximately 2500 names. List will be sent out to all soon.
      iii. Data Analytics proposal update
         M.A. Beecher and M. Palazzi are writing a proposal to fund new faculty positions in the areas of information design and visualization in collaboration with Art and other related disciplines.
      iv. Meetings with area faculty
         M.A. Beecher wants to continue to meet with faculty of each area and encourages area faculty to continue to review and refine their curriculum.
      v. International Affairs
P. Nini and M.A. Beecher visited International Affairs recently and discussed issues related to student exchange programs. Students are showing declining interest. The department needs to review the list of schools with which it exchanges to determine if any are not meeting standards expected. The department needs to actively encourage students to take advantage of the opportunity to participate in exchanges that we support. We could consider whether there is interest in developing travel study opportunities during the May term as a more affordable travel-related educational experience. We may need to determine the value of exchange programs in relation to internships, which students have preferred in recent years. From the perspective of International Affairs, we need to send students to schools that have sent students here in order to maintained a balanced relationship.

vi. Entrance exam format and deadline
   S. Denison - students will be required to submit three ½” white binders:
   • 1st binder-3-5 samples of their project work in Foundations classes;
   • 2nd binder-special project binder, student chooses one major’s project (not more than two if they want a back-up);
   • 3rd binder-supplemental portfolio materials and the department’s questionnaire
   • November 27th is the deadline
   • Students not accepted will have the option of reapplying but cannot re-take the foundations courses
   • Each committee will review the entrance binders on December 2nd; committee decisions are due December 5th; decision letters will be sent by G. Tippery on December 6th
   • Faculty members are discouraged from offering advice on submissions prior to the deadline if students approach them.
   • G. Tippery noted that after enrollment is completed in SIS, we need to make sure the students who did not get accepted declare another major because students cannot have a minor and major in one program.

c. Image for New Year’s greeting card from the department
   • Mary Anne would like to send out to alumni some kind of communication, possibly a greeting card around Xmas Holiday or New Year
   • One option would be to feature a student’s project on a greeting card.
   • A suggestion was made in getting Design Circle involved in communicating to the alumni and Mary Anne will follow up on this.

d. Summer Design Camp
   • The area coordinators have suggested that the department develop a “Design Camp” as a strategy for raising middle-school or high school student awareness of our professions and as a means of raising some additional funding for the department.
   • We need to consider what the most appropriate audience is and who will be involved with its development and delivery. Future discussion will be held to determine if and effort like this is something we should pursue.
